Well...after being thrust off rec.radio.shortwave, let me restate here:

I passed my tech plus exams last night and have now settled in for the long wait for a license. I thought whilst I waited I would troll around for ideas on putting together a POOR man's shack (emphasis on POOR)....any pointers towards used equipment, hamfests in the indianapolis area, schematics for the electronics novice (but I have built some kits successfully), general ideas, etc would be greatly appreciated!

Thanx

PS - I actually think the VEs were more excited to see me pass than I was...especially with the morse!
